

Veterinary Office Assistant

(24 week program)

It's said that to be happy at work, you need to get a job doing something you love.

You love animals . . . always have. You clearly remember your first pet and you can't imagine not having a pet in your life.

Imagine a job where you help keep these little friends healthy and happy.

You want a job where you make a difference.

Picture a job where you know you've made a difference in people's lives.

As a Veterinary Office Assistant you have the chance to make a difference every day.

More than managing an office.

Sure, our course teaches you how to manage a complex office environment.

That's a big part of the job, and we prepare you to meet those challenges, BUT...

...there's a lot more to it.

You can be working with the animals, too. Our course is well respected and prepares you to work hands on with the animals under the veterinarian's care. That's why many of our graduates find themselves doing far more than the administration of the office.

It's a rewarding career.

Helping people keep their pets healthy is like helping them with a family member. Whether it's in the gratitude of the pet owners or the loving trust of the animals themselves, your rewards go far beyond what's found in most jobs.
